Ready Made Editorial Thanks.

For one water-melon handed in at the office we will say: "Mr. Gardentruck, our esteemed fellow townsman, presented us with a large, luscious water melon of the Plymouth Rock variety on which the printers feasted. May he live long and prosper." In case the melon proves to be green this will be the form: "Farmer Gardentruck laid a good sized melon on our table last week. Thanks."

A small lot of new potatoes will call out the following: "Uncle Abner Stubblefoot remembers ye editor just as we go to press with a most luscious looking mess of new potatoes. We and our family expect to revel in the fruit during the coming week. He informs us that the bugs are doing great damage to the vines of many of his neighbors. Uncle, you struck the printers in the right spot; may your shadow never grow less."

Green corn will produce the following editorial effect: "Ye scribe's family has been enjoying another luxury for the last four days, Mrs. Deacon Churchdebt having presented our wife with a good dozen of roasting ears. Such favors as these are fully appreciated by yours truly, as well as by his wife and family. May Mrs. C. meet her reward in our earnest wish."

This for the big egg: "Equire Applejack laid the largest sample of hen fruit on our desk one day this week, that we have ever seen. He assures us that it measures eighteen by ten feet in circumference. Next?"

A bouquet will be acknowledged like this: "Yesterday afternoon as ye pencil pusher was busy with an unexpected rush of job work, you should come in but Miss Birdie Pistolpractice, the charming daughter of our worthy fellow citizen, Colonel Pistolpractice. She presented us with a beautiful bouquet of wild flowers which she had plucked with her own fair hands. Among the varieties we notice fire-weed, dandelion, wild buckwheat, red-top, tansy and sunflowers. It shall remain many days to beautify our sanctum. Our wife is also pleased with it."

The giver of a spare rib may expect this: "Our genial and jolly popular neighbor, Major Porcine, having frequently noticed the hungry look on the printer's face, took occasion early Monday morning to leave a mammoth spare-rib at our humble abode, taken from one of his famous dubs of Southdown porkers. We and our family have accordingly been feasting on fresh meat. By the way, we understand that the Major will accept the nomination for the legislature if it is tendered him. He is the man for the place."

A turkey will inspire this: "While sitting in our sanctum sanctorum about 11 o'clock Thursday morning, reclining our head in our hands, we were greatly surprised as well as pleased by having Colonel Whack W. Dorsey walk in with a mysterious air and a bundle under his arm. We had just finished our leader entitled 'True Tariff Reform as Compared with Tariff Jugglery,' and felt considerable fatigue, but it was immediately dispelled when the handsome Colonel disclosed a large, fat turkey in the bundle which he assured us was for our 4th of July dinner. To say that we were pleased but faintly expressed the emotions which surged through our breast. We immediately called our wife who even more pleased than we. It is such things as this that make life amid the exacting cares of the newspaper office endurable and causes us to keep on in the editorial harness without repining. Colonel may heaven reward you! It may not be out of place to inform our many readers that the Colonel's friends expect the coming legislature to elect him to the United States Senate. He seems to be the unanimous choice of our people. We predict that he will get it on the first ballot."—[Peck's Sun.]

"I have made it a rule through life," said a busybody at the lunch-table the other day to the man on his left, "never to meddle with another man's business." "That's right—precisely right," was the reply. "But I see you have a new confidential clerk." "Yes, sir—yes." "He's a hard-looking case. I've seen him drunk a dozen times, and I wouldn't trust him out of sight with a nickel. Took him out of charity—eh?" "Well, not altogether, you know. He happens to be my oldest son!" Then there was a period of silence so painful that both wished somebody would yell "Fire!" to break it. —[N. Y. Ledger.]

"Yes," said the chairman sadly, "our temperance meeting last night would have been most successful if the lecturer hadn't been absent-minded." "What did he do?" "He tried to blow the foam from a glass of water." —[Binghampton Leader.]

Five hundred million dollars was represented at the wedding of Miss Rita Armstrong and Mr. A. S. Drexel, the banker's son, at Elberon, Long Branch, the other day. Among the presents was $500,000 to the bridegroom.

Concerning Grief.

Grief ought to be private, at least so much as it may be misused to that end, like love, which is not to be paraded but reserved, and, when uncovered at all, only in some kind of sanctuary. Indeed, grief is a part of love's experience, and why, then, to be paraded more than love's joy? Nay, but to be modestly draped. Nevertheless, grief is more to be allowed in public than the rapture of affection. And this by common consent; for the most delicate-minded, who would hide a cress under curtains, will not rebuke tears harshly. It is understood that the one may be restrained if there is a right sense to do it, but the other not always. For a kiss or an intent look, or other sign of love, may be locked resolutely, but tears rush too quickly for command. But some signs of grief are deliberate and then offensive; among which I count the wearing of mourning clothes, which every way are bad, for they reinforce what time should assuage, and hem the heart in the marble courts of death, when it should retreat inward to the dwelling-room of memory; also, they make our woe an intruder on social cheerfulness—a black spot on the bright colors of company. But chiefly, mourning vestiture is bad as an ostentation, for it courts notices of a tender privacy, and blazes on the body what should be hidden in the heart. Grief often shows itself in a sadder way than the grief, because the grief is little and the show large, which is debasement. Nay, by observation at funerals, often I have been persuaded that the manner of grieving was set by convention and the amount thereof assigned, and the mourners but servants of the fashion. For I have seen plainly many things done because they were expected, and even lest the neighbors should suspect a lack of due grief—which, indeed, is rightly to be suspected in such case, for as Johnson says, that whenever there is real misery there is no recourse to the mention of it, so wherever sorrow is very sincere there is no anxiety to have credit for it. Also this cant or flourish of grief leaps to view like a compressed ball, rebounding in quick transitions often to be met, which shock a sincere heart; for though the natural rebound of the heart is to be praised, quietness and righteous cheerfulness are enough, but hilarity verges to profanation; yet after many cries and abundant tears, much craps and flowers and words, I have beheld the funeral barked meats set forth, and all the company seated with mirth which, though it had strong wings to rise with, had but a heavy and useless body to my thinking. —[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

Things Worth Knowing

Consumptive night sweats may be arrested by sponging the body at night in salt and water.

A half teaspoonful of soda in half a cup of water will relieve sick headache caused by indigestion.

A fever patient is cooled off and made comfortable by frequent sponging with warm soda water.

Warm mustard water should be given to one who has accidentally swallowed poison; this will cause vomiting; after that give a cup of strong coffee; that will counteract the remaining effects.

When going from a warm room out into the cold air close your mouth and breathe through your nose to prevent taking cold.

A hard cold is oftentimes cured by a cup of hot lemonade taken at bedtime, as it produces perspiration.

Teething children may be relieved of convulsions by being immersed in a warm bath, and cold water applied to the head.

For croup or pneumonia bruise raw onions, lay on a cloth with powdered gum camphor sprinkled over it, and apply to the chest and lungs, and cover with hot flannel. This is a sure cure if taken in time.

For nervous headaches, when the pain is over the eyes and the temples are throbbing, apply cloths wet with cold water to the head, and hot baths to the feet.

The juice of red onions is a perfect antidote for the sting of bees, wasps, hornets, etc. The sting of the honey-bee, which is always left in the wound, should first be removed. —[Ladies' Home Journal.]

The process of mummification varied in different countries; at different periods and in different parts of the same country, but nowhere did the process petrify the corpse. The mummies made at Memphis are black, dry and brittle, whereas those of the best Theban epoch are yellowish, flexible, and so elastic that the flesh yields to the touch of the finger and the limbs may be bent without breaking—this exquisite softness and elasticity have been attributed to the injection of costly chemical liquids into the veins, whereby the substance of the flesh was preserved. The most expensive method of embalming, which cost about $1,200, was as follows: The brains were in part removed through the nostrils by means of a bent iron implement, and in part by the injection of drugs. The intestines having been drawn out through an incision in the left side, the abdomen was cleansed with palm wine, filled with myrrh, cassia and other materials, and the opening was sewed up. This done, the body was steeped seventy days in a solution of citron or natron. After the steeping the body was washed and handed over to the swathers by whom it was bandaged in gummed cloth; it was then ready for the coffin. This natron process destroyed the flesh, leaving only the skin and bones. Dr. Birch gives 700 A. D. as the date at which mummification practically ceased.

Banana Consumption.

The past five years have brought this tropical fruit into such repute in the Northern States and Canada as to make it a strong competitor with northern growing fruits. The banana is a fruit that many do not favor upon the first trial, but each succeeding one is sure to bring it into increased favor, and time only strengthens its hold upon its friends. It is regarded as a most healthful article of diet, as well as a delicacy, and the consumption increases from year to year.

The bananas sold in this market are grown in the West Indies, the Isthmus and Central America. The ports of shipment are Aspinwall, Port Limon, Baracoa and the Island of Jamaica. There are two varieties—red and yellow. The red bananas come from Baracoa, and are really the richest and best flavored fruit; but they only average about seventy-five to the bunch, while the Jamaica and Port Limon—the yellow—will average one hundred and twenty-five. This makes the yellow variety the most profitable to the retailer, as first cost of the bunch is about the same in each case. The yellow varieties now come mainly from Port Limon on the Costa Rican coast, where large plantations have been set out within a few years, and are producing enormously. The Aspinwall plantations have deteriorated lately owing to lack of labor to care properly for them, and the fruit has deteriorated in consequence. The ports to which the cargoes are shipped are New Orleans, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston. New York furnishes the most of the stock shipped to this market, and arrivals are increased rapidly in amount. With the exception of a short season in midwinter, this market is continuously supplied with this fruit.

The banana is a wonderfully productive plant, it being estimated that land which will produce 1,000 pounds of potatoes will produce 44,000 pounds of bananas. It is estimated that land sufficient to grow wheat enough to feed one man, when planted to banana will feed twenty-five. Besides its fruit the banana plant is made available in other ways. Its young leaves are cooked as greens. The old leaves are filled with an acid juice which stains white an indelible black or dark brown. The fibers of the leaves make a textile fabric of great beauty, known as a fine kind of grass cloth. A plantation will yield all the year by timing the planting, although the crop is much more abundant at one season. —[Chicago Mail.]

Some Curious Funeral Customs.

In the Roman empire, the body was invariably burned.

The Mohammedans bury without a coffin of any kind.

The Greeks sometimes buried and sometimes burned their dead.

In India, the devoted wife formerly ascended her husband's funeral pyre and perished in the flames.

The music continuously kept up at the Irish wakes used to be for the purpose of warding off evil spirits.

The Greenlanders bury with a child a dog, to guide it in the other world, saying, "a dog can find his way anywhere."

The Australians tie the hands of the corpse, and extract the finger nails, that the dead may not scratch his way out of the grave.

The Russians place in the hand of the corpse a paper certificate of the character of the deceased, to be shown to Peter at the gate of heaven.

The North American Indians buried with the corpse a kettle of provisions, bow and arrows and moccasins, with pieces of deer skin and sinews of deer, for the purpose of patching the moccasins.

The Chinese scatter paper counterfeits of money on the way to the grave, that the evil spirit following the corpse may, by delaying to gather them, remain in ignorance of the locality of the grave. They also scatter in the wind, above the grave, paper images of the sedan-bearers and other servants, that they may overtake the soul and act in his service.

A very common theme of conversation among travelers is the question of whether or not a car rides easier in the middle than above the trucks. One of our railroad contemporaries some time ago published an article on the subject, and took the ground that there could be no difference, unless the sills and framing of a car yielded like the backboard of a wagon. There is certainly no yield to car sills and framing; yet every old traveler avoids the seats, and especially the sleeping berths, above the trucks, and old travelers generally know what they are doing. If the party who insisted that there could be no difference in the motion in different parts of the same car had ever crossed the stormy ocean in a moderately long steamer he might have received some enlightenment, especially if sea-sickness urged him to find the point of least motion. It is well-known that there is less motion amidship; than there is at the stem or stern, and less motion at the bottom of the vessel than on deck. A car acts in a similar way. Anything defective about the track jerks the wheels, which transmit the irregular motion to the truck, and that in return to the body of the coach. —[Railway World.]

The late Uncle Bob Parmley, of Wayne county, had forty-two children born to him in lawful wedlock.

GARRARD COUNTY DEPARTMENT.

Lancaster.

—Capt. E. W. Lillard, bought of R. S. Hadden a lot on Lexington avenue for $500 and will begin the erection of a dwelling house at once.

—Marriage licenses were issued last week to Wolford Baker and Miss Alice Naylor; S. H. Runt, of Lincoln, and Miss Lulu B. Denton, of this county.

—Brother Barnes begins his meeting at the Court House Wednesday afternoon. This is official. Mr. Barnes' many friends in this community will be glad to know of his return here to hold a meeting.

—Miss Nell Duncan is ill of fever. Mr. Sam M. Anderson and wife, of Louisville, are visiting the former's parents near town. Mr. Will Harris has returned from West Virginia, where for several months past he has been employed as telegraph operator.

—Col. W. O. Bradley has mounted the raging stump in favor of prohibition. He made his initial speech Thursday evening at the court house to a large and attentive audience, who were highly pleased with the Colonel's address. He was followed by Judge M. H. Owsley, Gen. W. J. Landrum, L. F. Hubble, J. W. West and Attorney Herndon, who made short speeches for the temperance cause.

—On last Wednesday about two miles from Lynchburg, this county, Eb Cooley, killed George Scott with an ax. The particulars as we learn them are as follows: Cooley and Scott were at the home of a neighbor and became engaged in a difficult fight, probably over a woman. Cooley to avoid trouble left the place and went some distance away, but was followed by Scott, who renewed the trouble, when Cooley struck him several times with an ax, inflicting wounds from which he died the next day. There were no eye witnesses to the deed and the above is Cooley's own version of the affair. He surrendered himself to E. Quire Walker and will have his examining trial Tuesday, when it is quite likely he will be acquitted. Both men were drinking at the time of the difficulty and both were reputed to be fearless men. Coroner A. O. Burside held an inquest on the remains last Friday, when the jury returned a verdict that George Scott came to his death from wounds inflicted by an ax in the hands of Eb Cooley.

—The public debt was reduced $10,627.013 17 in the month of September.

An Invocation to Imogen.

[Written for the Interior Journal.]
Come go with me to some far Southern clime,
Where summer skies bend down to kiss the sea,
Where all the years the fabled flowers are fanned
By nectar laden wings of honey bees.

There by the willow shaded brooks we'll sit,
Entranced with love, beneath a cloudless sky,
And listen to the murmuring falls that bear
From off the foam fringed waves the seabirds' cry.

There I'll tell thee of a love born out of earth;
A love too tender for aught else but thee;
Deep rooted in my heart, dear Imogen,
And constant as the roar of wind and sea.

Come now while stars their silent vigils keep,
And night with sable wing our way unfolds,
To shield us from the vulgar gaze of those
Who never knew the love of trusting souls.

Come while the moon from yonder shaded peak,
A ball of molten silver softly glides,
And sheds a shimmering sheen o'er all the rugged cliffs,
And over all the rugged mountain sides.

Come now I can not wait. The dull hours of the night
Pass all too slowly when thou art afar,
I'll send this message on the evening breeze,
And write it on the banners of moon and star.

Louisville, Sept., 1886. BESSIE HARRIS.

BOURNE!

—FROM WHENCE—

No Traveler Returns Sick!

In these tight times each buyer should consult his own interests. Why should you give one merchant 50c for an article when you can buy the same thing from another for 40c. To do this is not justice to yourself or family.

In the next place, you should be sure to get good articles. Poor goods are dear at any price. No where is this more so than in Medicines. You might as well pay 50c an ounce for saw dust as for inferior medicines.

Bourne has just received his large stock of Medicines of all kinds. Every article fresh from the manufacturers. He now has the nicest and cheapest selection of fancy goods, show case articles, &c. &c. The celebrated Lander's Spectacles and eye glasses a specialty. ## DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

For Congress,

JAMES B. MCCREARY.

Of Madison.

If the peevish INTERIOR JOURNAL man should ever speak kindly of us we should make tracks for the other side of the Ohio river.—[Danville Tribune. Capt. David A. Murphy, the profound and erudite editor of that sterling and incomparable sheet, the "regal Danville Tribune," is a natural born gentleman, too modest to sing his own praises and too magnanimous to offend a contemporary. He is besides a "crippled Federal soldier, as badly crippled as if he had lost an arm or a leg upon the battle field," and the rebel democrat who would strike him, metaphorically or otherwise, would knock his own grandmother down for the fun of seeing the poor old woman scramble to her feet again. Some people have been mean enough to call him a "crank," but no one who has ever read Sat Lovingsgood would apply that term, when the author furnishes one so thoroughly applicable and so genuinely descriptive. Words fail us to express our admiration of the man. He is in short the apple of our eye, the pink of perfection and a first-class judge of good whisky. Now get for the other side, you son-of-a-gun.

The cornerstone of the Custom-House was laid at Louisville Saturday afternoon by Congressman Willis, after a short but appropriate speech by Senator John Sherman and one by himself. There was but little enthusiasm and the latter's speech only got an occasional "clap" by the men seated on the platform. It is evident that Mr. Willis is not popular with the masses. His strength, and it is considerable, is principally among the mugwumps and men who mix their politics with religion. The contest for the Congressional nomination is the hottest in the city's history and the indications are that the vote will be close, with chances considerably in Caruth's favor. His friends are, however, not near so confident as a few weeks ago and betting is nearer even than it was. We hope and believe, however, that Caruth will get there.

The Supreme Court of Virginia has denied the petition of Thomas J. Claverius for a new hearing, and unless the Governor interferes he must hang. It will be remembered that Claverius was convicted at Richmond of throwing his cousin, Miss Lillian Madison, into the reservoir, the reason for the murder being that he had seduced her and that exposure was soon to result by the birth of a child. The case created wide-spread excitement at the time and although after a trial of a month no direct evidence against him was adduced, the chain of circumstances connected him so fully with the crime, that the verdict of death was received with general satisfaction.

We were surprised from the reports received from it to find the Exposition at Louisville so comprehensive and complete. The display is not quite so large as in former years, but nearly everything is represented and the amusing and instructive features are much larger than ever. Pain's fireworks is an attachment that is very popular and is decidedly realistic of the scenes preceding and happening at the time of the destruction of Pompeii by the eruption of the volcano. The art display is very fine and the show from beginning to end is well worth a visit.

JOHN SHERMAN's speech at Louisville Saturday night, barring his manducous statements about the South, is about as plausible a summary of the achievements of the republican party as the veriest sophist could present. He is the greatest statesman in his party and his words for that reason carry weight with them, even if they are in many instances untrue.

THE Richmond Register says this is the state of the case in the settlement of Judge Boone's suit against F. M. Green for $10,000 libel: The defendant accepted a proposition from the plaintiff to allow a judgment to be entered for $1,000, provided an entry was at the same time made upon the record that not one cent of same was to be enforced or collected.

It is going the rounds that Gen. Cassius M. Clay, of Kentucky, years old, writes that he has determined to re-enter politics. He has not made up his mind whether to run for Congress or Governor. It matters not how he makes up his mind, he'll get left in any event.

SHERMAN continues to wave the bloody shirt and to assert that the negroes of the South are practically disfranchised by democratic shot guns and bull-dozing. With all his ability the Senator can not rid himself of the propensity to slander and vilify his political enemies.

THE public debt is being reduced right along, which must be very mortifying to the republican rascals who have been predicting the financial ruin of the country under democratic rule. The reduction for the month of September was $10,627,713.17.

THERE is no prospect for reward and no chance for election, so John W. Lewis declines to sacrifice his business to run for Congress in the 4th. He would sacrifice it readily if the republicans were in power and a Federal appointment was in sight.

THE London Leader comes to us this week printed entirely at home and lots of advertising matter, which is proof that Bro. Grant is doing a grand office business.

THE Courier-Journal says "The Civil-service bill, commonly known as the 'Pendleton bill,' was written by George William Curtis, who submitted it to Senators Dawes and Edmunds, the latter of whom persuaded Senator Pendleton to offer it as his own." And Minister Pendleton ought to be recalled from the foreign courts and relegated to private life for the imposition.

THE Hon. Jefferson Davis has written a letter in which he brands Gen. Sherman as a "falsifier and a slanderer." The General, however, falls back on his dignity and says he will not notice the production, as his reputation can not be hurt by Mr. Davis. On the other hand we do not believe that the General can hurt Mr. Davis by lying on him.

THERE is no prospect of an amicable settlement of the trouble in the 3rd district and Halsey and Rhea will run to the end to be beaten by a republican. The party's interests should not be allowed to suffer at the hands of such men and a good democrat ought to be nominated over both.

EMMETT G. LOGAN, editor of the Louisville Times, has had another boy added to his family. His is the kind of a tribe we like to see increased.

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

—The democrats of Massachusetts nominated John F. Andrew, of Boston, for governor.

—Gage & Co., wholesale milliners, Chicago, have assigned, with liabilities of $750,000.

—A rough, named Ike Taylor, from Madison, was killed in a general fight in a snide show in Jessamine.

—Johnnie Campbell, aged 13, was killed by the accidental discharge of his gun near Harrodsburg Saturday.

—One thousand additional bricklayers are wanted for the next six months, at Charleston, at $4 or more a day.

—Ex-Mayor Chinn, of Frankfort, has been nominated for the State Board of Equalization in the 7th district.

—Captain Theodore C. Tracie, a well known Louisville journalist, died suddenly in St. Louis of heart disease.

—The fellows who boycotted the whole-sale stationery house of Baughman Bros., Richmond, Va., have been indicted.

—A Washington county man, Owen Simpson, blew out the gas on retiring in Louisville and then lay down and died.

—Sleigh Riders got in their first fun at Sheboygan, Mich., Friday, the snow-fall there being sufficient for the amusement.

—Joseph A. Wagner has been appointed Pension Agent in place of R. L. Taylor, resigned to run for governor of Tennessee.

—In Monroe county, Ill., Eddie Clark, aged 17, shot and killed his sweetheart, Melissa Fultz, not yet 15, and killed himself.

—The Hon. Samuel J. Randall was renominated for Congress by the democrats of the Third Pennsylvania district. There was no opposition.

—Col. Hawkins, the man murdered in Mercer, was the father of the young man who was killed by Robert Pulliam in Harrodsburg a few years ago.

—Judgment for $2,500,000 has been given against Oscar Baldwin, defaulting cashier of the Mechanics' National Bank, Newark, N. J., now in prison.

—A valuable find of gold is reported from British Columbia, near the Alaska line, and it is said $24,000 of the precious metal has been already taken out.

—Consul Tanner reports that the production of beer in Germany in 1885 was 1,100,000,000 gallons, or enough to make a lake one mile square and 6½ feet deep.

—Mr. Samuel S. Hamilton, sheriff of Jefferson county several years, and at the time of his death a prominent business man of Louisville, met his death last week by falling down a flight of stairs.

—The Treasury has at last been aroused to the general demand of the public for small silver certificates, and will begin to dole them out at the rate of $1,000 a day to each bank till the immediate pressure is satisfied.

—The Dittmar powder works, at Bay Chester, Long Island, exploded Friday, blowing the bodies of four men to atoms. The shock was so great that for many miles around it was believed that Wiggins' earthquake had arrived one day behind time.

—Eph Morris, the "reformed gambler," who has been traveling over Iowa, parading the streets of the principal cities with banners labeled "prohibition, the saloons must go," etc., was assaulted in Burlington by a mob of saloon men and severely injured.

—The statement is published that a lockout at the Chicago Stock-yards had been decided upon sometime during this month, when the packing houses will all close down and remain closed until the question of eight hours or ten hours is settled.

—Col. J. W. Hawkins, a prominent citizen of Mercer county, was shot and killed in his store near Monday's Ferry by unknown men Friday night. It is not known what the cause was, as no attempts at robbery were made and he had no enemies that his family knew of.

—Mr. Reuben Wells has been appointed Superintendent of Machinery of the Louisville & Nashville, and Harvey Middleton Assistant Superintendent of Machinery of the same road. These gentlemen have hitherto performed the duties of these positions, and now receive their official titles.

—Gen. W. B. Shattuc, G. P. A. of the O. & M. railway, has gotten a verdict for $3,000 damages for libel against the Rail road Register, that paper charging him with compelling passenger agents to divide with him their percentages on the tickets sold.

It seems that the editors got mad because the General refused to honor their drafts for papers and through pure malice only.

—Todd county has gone "dry" by a majority of about 1,000.

—Thirty-three more Union soldiers are employed in the Pension Bureau under a democratic Administration than were to be found there under the republicans.

—Mrs. Craig Alexander, the wife of a formerly wealthy citizen of St. Louis, jumped from the roof of her son's house Sunday and was instantly killed. Her husband failed in business, became insane and his wife's mind was soon afterwards affected also.

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—Mrs. Harris has removed her millinery establishment to the room over Holmes' grocery.

—Messrs. G. W. Welsh, Sr., and G. W. Welsh, Jr., have returned from a business trip to Kansas City. Mr. B. F. Paillips is in Newport, called there by an accident to his little daughter, who fell and broke her arm.

—Hon. A. G. Talbot is constantly receiving additional endorsements to his application for minister to Austria, and will in a few days start to Washington to present his claims to the President.

—The vote on the proposal to take $25,000 stock in the Louisville Southern railroad in exchange for city bonds to that amount was carried Saturday by a vote of 408 to 1. The full vote of the town is from 650 to 700.

—Judge Morrow closed the late term of the circuit court with the esteem and respect of everybody. Courteous but firm with all, and impartial in his rulings, he has left the impression that he is indeed to be the head of the court and that lawyers great or small need not expect to "run" him.

—Mr. D. T. Fackler has gone back to the Advocate office, taking the place of Mr. James F. Zimmerman. Mr. Fackler's late partner, Mr. W. B. Nichols, is now associated with Mr. Walker Fry in the job printing establishment on 31 street. Mr. Zimmerman thinks of going to Texas. Judge F. F. Fox, of Louisville, is in town.

—Albert Sallee, charged with murder of Joshua Bell Caldwell, was on Saturday night found guilty of manslaughter and given three years in the penitentiary. It is said that at first 6 of them were for murder with 3 for the death penalty and 4 for imprisonment for life; 3 for 21 years in the penitentiary and one for 2 years and 1 for acquittal. It will be remembered that the killing occurred on the 15th of March last, in the old College campus, between 8 and 9 o'clock at night, and that the accused was at the examining court committed without bail, but afterwards released by Judge Owsley on a $5,000 bond. He was indicted at the late term of the circuit court and the selection of a jury began Thursday morning.

—Sallee was prosecuted by R. C. Warren, of Stanford, Messrs. Harding and Yerkes, of Danville, and Commonwealth's Attorney Herndon, of Lancaster. The defense was represented by Capt. P. B. Thompson, of Harrodsburg, and Messrs. Jacobs, Breckinridge and W. O. Goodloe, of Danville. It is understood that no appeal will be taken.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—Quarterly Court to day; very little business transacted; small crowd in attendance.

—The show had a very good crowd Saturday, and was pronounced by those who attended to be very good.

—Miss Susie Brown started last Saturday to Ash Grove, Mo., accompanied by her sister, Miss Georgia, as far as Parkersville, Ky. Mrs. Sallie Maret, of Garrard, was visiting in town yesterday.

—The commissioner of the Rockcastle circuit court sold two tracts of land last Saturday in Knox county. The land was known as the Bradford land; one tract of 196½ acres sold for $507.50 and one tract of 275 acres brought $952. These prices are considered very good by persons who are acquainted with the land.

—There is quite a shifting about this week in our little town. J. L. Arnold, the jailer, has moved into one of Mr. James Houk's houses; D. N. Williams is moving to the property on Main street, where J. J. Williams lived, and Wm. Poynter has rented D. N. Williams' farm and will move to it at once; Willis Adams, Jr., will go into Poynter's property; Eugene Nicholson has erected a house on J. K. McClary's place and will move to it in a few days.

—There is a good deal of talk up the road about the new railroad from Corbin to Cumberland Gap. The line as located from Corbin to Pineville runs through a country that is almost level and will require but little work. There will be only one short tunnel and that will be through Paint Hill, about 7 miles this side of Barboursville. I had a talk with Dr. M. Tabler, a prominent railroad contractor, who said that all the work on the proposed line would be comparatively light. The people up that way are very enthusiastic over their prospects for a railroad. Real estate and other property is advancing in price at a terrific rate. There is a great deal of farming land in Knox county and when she gets a railroad, as no doubt she soon will, she will rank first among the mountain counties.

A novel way of disposing of an old love affair is that adopted a few months since by one of the brightest and prettiest of Washington belles. The young lady wears as many hearts dangling from her belt as does an Indian brave of scalps. Wishing at the time mentioned to announce the breaking of her engagement to a young army officer now stationed in the far West, but formerly well known in Washington, she issued invitations for a luncheon to a few of her most intimate friends. The centre piece of the prettily spread table was formed of a mass of blossoms, in the midst of which, heavily draped with crape, rested the young girl's photograph.

Phil Sheridan and the Cowards.

Said Gen. Phil Sheridan, talking the other day to a few friends: "A few months previous to the battle of Mission Ridge the division was just entering on an engagement in Tennessee when, to our astonishment, I saw several junior commissioned officers fall out and leave the line and their non-commissioned officers lead the companies forward. I had these little Captains and their Lieutenants arrested at once. The next day the division was formed in a hollow square with my little cowards in the centre. 'Boys,' I said, 'I won't disgrace you, insult you—not a man of you—by asking you to receive the swords of those puppies standing there.' I told 'em I was going to send for my nigger boy, and I did. He took the swords and carted 'em off. That settled one thing. After that my officers fought like dogs and devils. They did. Why, on the Ridge I lost 132 officers—more than the whole French army lost in the battle of Solferino."—[Chicago Tribune.

WHY TAILOR SCHMITT IS DOWN ON NEWSPAPER MEN.—"I don't vant nothings to do vid dem noosebaper vellers. Day ish too schmart, all de vile."

"How's that, Schmitt?"

"Vell, de oder day von noosebaper man gums my blas in undt he says, 'How is de vall fashions, Schmittie?' Undt I says, 'Bretty moch de same. Vant a suit?'"

"'Vy,' he says, gasts ish vorn longer dish month as dey vas last month, ain't it?'"

"And I says, 'No, ain't I dailer? Don't I know my drade?'"

"'Un't he says, 'I pets unt offercoat.' Unt I say, 'Aller right.'"

"Did he prove it?'"

"'Vell, he gets undt allamach undt shows how September haf dirty tays undt October dirty von. So de goats vas vorn von tay longer dish month. So I haf to makes undt seexty-five toller offercoat, gost me voefteen tollars. I haf no yonse vor dem noosebaper vellers.'—[The Wasp.

A young lawyer of Ellaville, Ga., bantered a young woman at a social gathering to marry him. To his evident surprise she told him to get the license. He wouldn't be bluffed and got the license at once, while others of the party sent for a clergyman. He knew nothing of the joke and when the pair walked into the parlor arm in arm he thought it strange that the spectators laughed. But he began solemnly, while the party wondered which of the two would weaken first, and the contracting parties each wished that the other would ask the minister to stop. When the first question was asked the young man concluded that the affair had gone far enough and he broke ranks and fled, much to the young woman's relief.

The following is Artemus Ward's description of why he courted Betsy Jane: "There were many affection ties which made me hanker after Betsy Jane. Her father's farm joined ours; their cows and ours quenched their thirst at the same spring; our old mare both had stars in their foreheads; the measles broke out in both families at nearly the same time; our parents (Betsy Jane's and mine) slept regularly every Sunday in the same meeting-house, and the nabors used to observe, 'How thick the Wards and Pezles air.' It was a sublime sight in the spring of the year to see our several mothers (Betsy's and mine) with their gowns pinned up so that they could not see 'em, effectshunitey bilin' soap to gether and absoosin' their nabors."

There is something primitive and refreshing about the enforcement of the law in Japan. A young woman of 18, who was accused of poisoning her husband, was found to be entirely innocent, but the populace had made up its mind to enjoy the old fashioned administration of the "Ling Chi" punishment—which consists of chopping the victim into a thousand little bits, alive—and would not accept the decree of acquittal. The Viceroy then very kindly ordered the execution of the innocent woman to proceed and it was carried out.

There is, near the Court-house of Madison county, Virginia, a Lutheran church, built in 1748, the pastor of which is paid his salary from the products of a farm conveyed and owned by the church for that purpose since its first establishment; before the war it also owned a number of slaves. Its communion service was presented by the King of Sweden more than a century ago, and its very fine organ was the gift of citizens of London about the same time.

The caissons for the piers of the new bridge at Cincinnati will contain 1,250,000 feet of oak timber. Their dimensions are 81 feet, 5 inches by 34 feet, 9 inches. They will require 11,000 barrels of cement, 2,000 yards of sand and 10,000 yards of broken stone. One hundred and fifty men are now employed on the work and when operations are at their height 450 to 500 will be worked.

That abrupt, explosive, discourteous, monosyllabic "thanks," got a Rowland for Oliver the other day. Madame dropped her card case in Tremont street, and a brisk little newboy picked it up for her. "Thanks!" she said, "Welks!" said he, and bolted.—[Boston Beacon.

A clerk in a men's furnishing store says that a man who buttons the left side of his collar first makes a mistake, for he uses his right hand for that and then uses his left for the more difficult task of buttoning the other side. He should reverse the process.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria. When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria. When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria. When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

—MRS. M. D. HUGHES and J. P. Sandifer, of Lancaster, were here Sunday.

—MISS TILLIE HALL entertained a number of her friends at her home Friday night.

—MRS. JAMES MARET, of Mt. Vernon, has been the guest of Mrs. S. H. Thompson.

—MISS SUWADE BEAZLEY is back from the cities and will have her fall opening in a few days.

—WILL BRADY has again opened a confectionery at his stand next to M. D. Elmore's store.

—MR. AND MRS. WM. ROYSTON, of Garrard, are visiting the family of Mr. George H. McKinney.

—MRS. J. L. SLAVIN, of Crab Orchard, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Geo. W. Roberts, at Harrodsburg Democrat.

—J. B. HOBBS, Esq., of Jellico, is assisting Chief Train Dispatcher Harris while Matt Woodson is in Louisville.

—MR. THOMAS D. RANEY is managing the store of Mr. J. D. Slavin, at Ottenheim, during his absence in the cities.

—DR. LEE F. HUFFMAN returned Sunday from Asheville, N. C. He tells us that his wife is much improved in health.

—MRS. KATE HAYS and Miss Alma returned yesterday from a very pleasant month's visit to relatives at Independence, Mo.

—MR. AND MRS. FISHER McROBERTS, of Dana, Ill., are here on their wedding tour, the guests of Mr. El McRoberts and other relatives.

—BIG HEARTED old Tim Higgins is still in Louisville, doing a good business and making it his special pleasure to entertain all his Lincoln county friends.

—MR. J. C. THOMPSON, the enterprising jewelry merchant of Lancaster, was here yesterday, prospecting with a view to establishing a branch house here.

—DR. AND MRS. J. B. OWSEY entertained the newly married couple, Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Reid, at supper a few nights ago, when all was forgiven and forgotten.

—THE sprightly young editor of the Lancaster News, Mr. W. A. Mullins, was here yesterday and favored us with a call. He is going at the business with the intention of making it a success and we hope and believe he will realize his hopes.

LOCAL MATTERS.

SIX building lots for sale between Stanford and Rowland. H. J. Darst.

A LITTLE child of Engineer James Elmore died at Rowland yesterday of brain fever.

THE handsomest line of queensware ever brought to this market just opened at A. A. Warren's "Model Grocery."

KILLED — Ed Cooley, the reputed son of the late Ed Kennedy, killed John Scott in upper Garrard Friday with an axe.

Now is your chance to get a bargain at Metcalf & Foster's. Their stock is larger and more complete than ever before.

STOVES! STOVES!! — We have bought the largest and nicest line of heating stoves ever brought here before. Give us a call. Metcalf & Foster.

CAPT. THOS. RICHARDS has contracted with Mr. J. A. Wright for a cottage to be built on South Main street, between the dwellings of Messrs. E. P. Owsley and A. A. McKinney.

SKIPPED — Ben Richardson, a colored man, skipped to Kansas, Friday, owing Mr. Isaac Hamilton $85 and other parties smaller sums. Mr. Hamilton had information that he had been seen with $300 before leaving and he dispatched his attorney, Masterson Peyton, to Louisville to arrest him under the law against a debtor leaving the State for the purpose of defrauding his creditors, but he must have gotten wind of the intention and flown to Indiana in time to save his mutton.

FRESH Candies by the wholesale at Walters & Wearen's.

FRESH fish and oysters, served in any way and at any time at J. T. Harris'.

A FINE line of fresh French Candies just received at A. A. Warren's "Model Grocery."

A NEW and handsome stock of fall goods has just been received by S. H. Shanks. Call and examine them.

THE 15 shares of First National Bank stock advertised by Mr. James Daddar sold yesterday to Hugh Sargent at $115.

Our old friend, J. L. Dawson, tells us that he has in his orchard two apple trees, of the Ball Flower variety, now in full bloom.

THE Court of Claims is in session and will probably not complete its labors before to-morrow. County Attorney Carpenter tells us that the amount to be allowed is about the usual sum, $7,000.

Two heavy frosts fell here Saturday and Sunday night, but as it was dry but little damage was done in this locality. Reports from the tobacco sections show heavy losses and much discouragement among the farmers. Here the small quantity raised was mostly housed.

We congratulate our friends at Danville on their public spiritedness in voting so unanimously to subscribe $25,000 to the Louisville Southern. There was only one old fogey who voted against it and he deserves to pay double freight and fare all the rest of his days.

CURIOUS — Mr. Uriah Dunn, who has just returned from South Carolina, showed us a yial containing eleven different sands thrown up in one fissure made by the earthquake. They are almost as varied in appearance as the colors of the rainbow and show considerable signs of gold and silver.

SOME of the more thoughtless of the prohibitionists wanted to nominate a candidate for Congress yesterday, but the judgment of the more temperate men prevailed and none was named. We understand that our old friend, Alex. Lusk, was anxious for the nomination. The republicans will probably put up a man at Danville to-day.

A LARGE number of his highly pleased constituents gathered at the Court-house yesterday to hear an account of the stewardship of Gov. James B. McCreary. He gave an excellent account of the achievements of the last House and showed that the democrats were fulfilling their promises to the letter. He was especially complimentary of President Cleveland, who he thinks is doing his best, hampered as he is, both for the party and country at large. The Governor has served the district most satisfactorily and the general verdict is "well done thou good and faithful servant. We will keep you in Congress till you choose to step higher."

IN the county court yesterday Mr. J. E. Huffman qualified as deputy clerk and entered upon the discharge of the duties. A certificate of honesty and probity was given George W. Gentry, colored, who will apply for license to practice law at the next circuit court. Mr. H. S. Withers came into court and asked that the error of the assessment of certain of his property that had been put down by mistake at $2,000 be changed to $20,000. Most all the applications to the court are for reductions, and this is the first we have known for an increase. W. A. Tribble also obtained a certificate of good character and will be licensed at the next circuit court to practice law. E. S. Powell was appointed administrator of Miss Kate Powell. At 2 o'clock the court of claims convened with the following magistrates present: W. M. Garrett, E. B. Caldwell, Jr., E. B. Austin, M. S. Butin, John Ellis, J. P. Lund, J. E. Wright, L. K. Wells, Hugh Sargent, Jas. Anderson, C. C. Brown, George P. Bright, M. C. Portman and John Bailey.

FIRE — About 12 o'clock Friday night the cry of "fire" was sounded and as usual a great crowd rushed to the scene. It proved to be at the residence of Mr. Will Craig, on upper Main street, and the fire had gotten such headway before assistance arrived as to make it useless to attempt to put it out. By dint of hard work a good deal of the furniture was saved, but it was badly broken up in moving. Nothing from upstairs was saved, as Newt Craig, who was sleeping there, found it almost an impossibility to get out in time to save himself. His grip, containing his road examples and some money was also lost. The house was insured for $2,500 and the furniture for the same amount in the Northwestern, of Milwaukee, and the Union, of Philadelphia, which Mr. Craig thinks is fully $3,000 less than the actual loss. There is no theory as to the cause of the fire, unless it caught from that fruitful source of such disasters, a defective flue. Mrs. Craig is absent and the part of the family at home have gone to stay with Mr. John H. Craig. Mr. Craig will rent the Rout house and build as soon as practical.

MARRIAGES.

—The marriage of Dr. Joseph M. Owens, of this county, and Miss Mollie Owens, of Lincoln county, is announced to take place next Tuesday, Oct. 5 — (Somerset Reporter).

—Prof. W. K. Argo, Superintendent of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum, Danville, and Miss Belle, the very attractive daughter of Prof. Wm. Cheneault, of the Louisville Law School, will be married at Mr. R. W. Givens', in this county, Thursday next.

—Hawthorne Hill, Esq., the brilliant and capable managing editor of the Louisville Commercial, is to become a Benedict on the 14th, on which day he will lead to the altar Miss Mollie Owens, daughter of the late Mrs. Mollie Owens, a splendid young lady of Frankfort.

—Mr. H. M. Burke and Mrs. Susan Owsley were married at Hustonville Sunday.

—Owing to the dangerous illness of Miss Mary Miller at the home of a relative in Louisville of typhoid fever her marriage to the Rev. Joe A. Munday is indefinitely postponed. Mr. Munday went to her bedside Saturday, when she was hardly able to recognize him. He tells us that he will remain in Louisville for the present and perhaps carry on a meeting.

RELIGIOUS.

—A full report of one of Rev. George O. Barnes' sermons appears in yesterday's Courier Journal.

—The Southern Presbyterian General Assembly appointed next Thursday, a day of fasting, humiliation and prayer.

—Dr. Eaton says: "In five and a half years the Baptists of Louisville have given over $100,000 for church building and lots. The membership has doubled."

—The Indiana Methodist Conference has condemned the use of tobacco as uncleanly and unhealthful and the delegates promised to preach against it once each year.

—The Christian church at this place has called Elder John Bell Gibson for next year, making his third year with us. Under his ministrations the church has gained in membership about 125 and is a prosperous and harmonious community.

—A religious enthusiast of Los Angeles, Cal., thought he heard a voice commanding him to sell what he had and give to the poor. So he sent $1,000 each to two benevolent societies of the place, leaving his family destitute. The money was sent to the crank's wife and children.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

—Taco Robinson bought of John M. White 25 85 lb. hogs at $3.

—S. H. Shanks sold to Lee, Hudson & Co. a pair of work mules for $240.

—Jack Bosley sold to Jerry Caldwell, of Boyle, 12 2-year-old cattle at $41.75.

—Cora is selling in the field in Madison at $1 to $1.25, according to location.

—John S. Owsley bought of Brinkley, Catron & Co., of Pulaski, 39 yearling mules at $60.

—Good prime steers are eighty cents to $1 per hundred weight less in price now than at the same time last year.

—It is claimed that a third of the tobacco crop in Clark, Bourbon, Fayette and Fleming was caught and ruined by the frost.

—Mr. Richard Bibb left in this office on Saturday 5 sweet potatoes, of the Brazilian variety, which averaged 3 1/2 pounds, one of them weighing 4 1/2; also two ears of white corn each 1 1/2 inches in length.

—Robert Beverly, President of the Virginia State Agricultural Society, has telegraphed that President Cleveland will certainly visit the fair on the 21st inst., and probably bring Mrs. Cleveland with him.

—It is stated by the Veterinary Commission that it will take $50,000 to $60,000 to reimburse the owners of the cattle ordered to be slaughtered in Chicago because of pleuro-pneumonia, which has taken root in the distilleries there.

—A pretty good crowd was at County Court yesterday and business in the stock trade and other lines was looking up.

—Capt. H. T. Bash reported about 150 cattle on the market. Best sold at from 3 1/2 to 4 cents; common 2 1/2 to 3 1/2. Aged mules brought $80 to $125; mule colts $35 to $70. A few plug hogs sold from $75 to $100.

—It is said that the franchise of the Louisville Jockey Club is for sale, the price asked being $50,000. The principal part of the stock is held by Eastern men, the proxies being in possession of Col. Clark, the manager who gets $5,000 a year. The latter has received an offer to manage a track in the East next season. — [The Sporting Life.]

—HEREFORD SALE.—Attention is called to the advertisement in this issue of a public sale of Hereford cattle at Louisville. The sale will be made on the well known "Glenview" farm; and the cattle are first-class representative specimens of this great breed. The Hereford has a growing popularity, and even in Kentucky the breed is establishing itself. The breed is one that Mr. Henry believes in, and is willing to make sacrifices for.

—Judge John Kyle sold to D. B. Brewer 16 head of 1,460-pound cattle at $4.25 per cwt. Mr. Dave Terhune bought of Henry Hubbell, of Boyle, 16 head of yearling mules at $68 per head. Capt. B. B. Campbell bought of J. P. Lapsley a nice lot of 2 year old cattle, weighing 1,464 lbs., at $14 per head. Caldwell & Gentry, of Boyle, and Ben Campbell have bought 280 head of extra cattle, weighing from 1,150 to 1,400 pounds, in this county, at $3.80 to $4.10 per cwt. — [Harrodsburg Democrat.]

Salt river is an imaginary stream up which a defeated candidate is supposed to be sent, and whence he is not expected to come back. The origin of the expression is as follows: The Salt river, geographically, is a tributary of the Ohio. Its source is in Kentucky, and being very crooked and difficult of navigation, it was, in the early days, a favorite stronghold for river pirates. These highwaymen were in the habit of preying on the commerce of the Ohio and robbing their plunder up Salt river, whence it was never recovered. Hence, it came to be said of anything that was irrevocably lost, "It's rolled up Salt river." By an easy transition it was applied to unsuccessful candidates.
